the filled by Aldermen having two importances serve in the wards which were merged and which lost their identity.

The result of the circumstances just recited was that in the recent election each ward had to elect its full quota of three members except Clay Ward, which elected only two, since it already had a hold-over member in Alderman Puller's.

In an oral opinion, City Attorney Pollard has held that Alderman Puller's hold-over term in no way altered the general situation, and that at the organization meeting the four wards will have to determine by lot which shall have two long-term members and one short-term member, or vice versa. The fact that Clay Ward, through extraordinary circumstances, has inherited a short-term member, the City Attorney held, should not guarantee two long terms to the two Aldermen elected that ward in the recent election. These, he said, are bourfd in the interest of a square deal to the others, to take their chances with the rest of the field in landing long terms.
